Dr. Gilbère is committed to providing the latest natural health information—focusing her work and research in identifying non-drug methods of correcting health imbalances and chronic disorders. Her emphasis is education and prevention, providing the client the most effective weapon against dis-ease—knowledge. Dr. Gilbère arms her audience with the necessary information enabling them to make informed choices regarding non-drug therapeutic options. She emphasizes individual commitment; a vital ingredient necessary in making much-needed life-style changes to facilitate the reversal of disease—getting to the causes (true health-care), not merely dealing with symptoms (dis-ease management). Her position is that of a health architect—providing the blueprint and "tools" necessary to build a strong foundation to support a structure of health, Naturally.

After recovering from her own life-threatening digestive disorder (leaky gut syndrome), and subsequent multiple allergic responses resulting from prescription drug side-effects, Dr. Gilbère has dedicated her professional life to researching and finding non-drug solutions for chronic disorders. We proudly present her new publication and a summary of what is yet to come, naturally.
